Reconditioned Shock Absorbers are a Safety Hazard

What is a Shock Absorber?

A Damper along with a Spring is called a Shock Absorber. A Damper is a device that absorbs the vibration of the Spring.

How does a Shock Absorber WORK?

When a vehicle runs on bumpy road, load comes on the Spring(Coil, Leaf or Torsional Bar). If the damper is not there Spring will keep on oscillating and pass these movements to the vehicle & passengers. Damper fitted parallel to Spring, absorbs these vibrations quickly & thereby protect the passengers from an uncomfortable ride.

Why a Shock Absorber can not be Reconditioned?

A Shock Absorber, consists of 42 components, many of them irreplaceable. These parts though designed for arduous continuous service give declined performance after an average of 20,000 Kms. A recent survey revealed that reconditioned shock absorbers available in the market are on an average 5-7 years old- well past their effective life.

Springs

Springs, the most important part in a Shock Absorber, show a decline in performance after a continuous, rigorous operation of approximately 20,000 Kms of service life because they gradually loose their tension. These springs age fitted inside the shock absorber and at the base of inner cylinder where they cannot be reached or replaced.

Once these springs wear out nothing can make a Shock Absorber absorb Road Shocks again.

WARRANTY

WARRANTY CLAIMS WILL BE ACCEPTED FOR THE FOLLOWING
DEFECTS WHICH COULD BE ASSOCIATED WITH MANUFACTURING

- OIL LEAKAGE • BREAKAGE
- WELDING FAILURE • PISTON SEPARATED
- JAMMED (No Piston Movement)

WEAK and HARD' SHOCK ABSORBER
AS TESTED BY HAND IS NOT ACCEPTED UNDER WARRANTY
