Maruti starts to roll out cars from Manesar

ARNAB DUTTA

Manesar (Haryana), 12 May

n Tuesday, Ajeet Singh (name changed), a permanent employee at Maruti Suzuki's (MSIL) Manesar facility, finally returned to his beloved factory floor, where he has worked for over a decade. But to his dismay, he found that much had changed in the 50 days that the factory had remained shut owing to the nationwide lockdown.

Though he was meeting his colleagues after weeks, Singh could not greet them with a warm hug, the usual chit chat was missing, and they couldn't go out for a smoke during a break like they used to. Where earlier, they would sit four to six to a table, now each table had only two workers and a plastic partition had been set up in the middle to enforce physical distancing.

With Maruti's two plants in Manesar opening their doors on Tuesday, Singh and his colleagues are struggling to adapt to the plethora of new rules that the auto companv has been deployed on the factory floor to ensure the health and safety of workers in the age of Covid-19.

The most obvious casualty of the new regimen has been the friendly co-mingling between workers. Earlier, they would crowd around the food stalls during lunch hour, exchange banter and bonhomie. Today, lunch is served in parcels second helpings come in small packs - and workers eat their food, while maintaining their distance from each other. Outside the factory, another startling sight greets the eyes.

Dozens of brand new Maruti Suzuki cars — DZire, WagonR, Ertiga - are piled up on the road. Transport workers and plant employees can be seen parking, test driving and checking the vehicles. A couple of security personnel, equipped with loudspeakers, continuously remind everyone about social distancing norms and make announcements to clear the roads.

Executives at APL Logistics, a subsidiary of the Japanese freight management company that handles the delivery chain of MSIL's cars, are busy completing the dispatch of hundreds of new units which, despite being invoiced, got stuck at the plant due to the abrupt lockdown on 24 March. Some 2,800 such units are awaiting dispatch to locations like Bengaluru, Hyderabad and Kolkata. The sudden rush to dispatch them has severely strained their capacities, more so because several restrictions persist even now. The Maruti's Manesar plant has an inventory of over 20,000 ready vehicles. APL plans to load 650 cars on freight trains from Bawal in Harvana on Tuesday. And as the cars get ready to roll out of the plant, employees are coming to terms with the new realities, Navin Kumar, vicepresident of Maruti Suzuki Employee's Union, says several changes have been adopted to maintain the strict social distancing guidelines issued by the state government. Now most things, from tea vending machines to water dispensers, are to be accessed by a ground-level,

"Any place where the touch of hand was inevitable earlier, has been re-engineered and replaced by sensors or a button that can only be operated by foot. It is tough to get accustomed to this new environment, but it's necessary," he says.

Moreover, factory floors have been divided into mini-zones, with six-feet high partitions acting as dividers between workers. Many of them have been instructed to remain inside marked zones that define the permissible area for their movement. On Tuesday, only a handful of workers were employed to finish the 15-20 units of Dzire and Ertiga that had been lying unfinished in the cross the gate. assembly line. Pre-lockdown, the plant used to see thousands of cars rolling out every day. In fact, out of some 6,000 workers at the MSIL car manufacturing unit, only 600 who reside nearby, were brought in today. They were transported by a fleet of buses -10workers to a vehicle — and they underwent two rounds of tempera ture checks, once inside the bus and then at the entrance to the factory.

The workers also have to don face shields, masks and gloves once they

To monitor the health of its workers, MSIL has deployed an inhouse app, which has been built in line with the government's Aarogya Setu app. All data, including the workers' health data collected in the last 14 days, are regularly uploaded on the app for quick reference and

At Manesar Powertrain, a unit of Maruti Suzuki Powertrain India, which manufacturers internal combustion engines for Maruti's top-selling models such as WagonR, Swift, workers were welcomed today. The focus here has been on ensuring that the highly sophisticated plant is up to scratch when it comes to maintenance and also that workers get accustomed to the new safety norms. Manufacturing activity has also started at the plant. Sources said that for the moment, the management has decided to complete the work that came to an abrupt halt when the lockdown was announced. A few dozen K12 engines that are widely used in mid-segment hatchbacks like the Swift, DZire, Baleno and Ignis, had been lying idle in the production line. "We are working on them today," said a senior employee at the Powertrain plant.

India still 2nd in FB user data requests: Study

NEHA ALAWADHI New Delhi, 12 May

India remains second-highest in terms of user data requests from Facebook, according to its bi-annual Transparency Report that revealed government requests in H2CY19.

"Of the total volume, the US continues to submit the largest number of requests, followed by India, the UK, Germany and France," said Chris Sonderby, vice-president and deputy general counsel of Facebook, in a Newsroom post. This was followed by India, which made 26,698 requests in the six months ended December 2019, a marginal increase from the 22,684 requests made in H1CY19. Of the total requests made by India, FB produced data for 15.206 accounts.

The US also made the highest number of legal process requests at 47,958, followed by India with 24,944. In India, it produced some data for 14,345 of such requests. Facebook also released its latest Community Standards Enforcement Report and said it removed 4.7 million pieces of content globally on the platform connected to organised hate, an increase of over 3 million pieces of content from the previous quarter.

The report provides metrics on how well Facebook and Instagram enforced their policies from October 2019 through March 2020.

Saudi Arabia's state-controlled oil giant retained its massive dividend despite a 25 per cent plunge in profit, and signaled it would keep spending in check as it braces for deeper damage from the oil crisis. Saudi Aramco, the world's most valuable listed company, will pay a dividend of $18.75 billion for the first three months of 2020. That would leave it on track to meet its full-year goal of $75 billion, though it didn't specifv if it was still committed to that number

The payout is crucial for the kingdom, which holds about 98 per cent of Aramco and is facing its worst financial turmoil in decades as revenue falls. On Monday. the government tripled value-added tax and cut bureaucrats' allowances as it looks to rein in a fiscal deficit that could reach 13 per cent of gross domestic product this year.

At the time of Aramco's record initial public offering in December, the dividend was a huge part of its appeal. A stress test carried out by JPMorgan Chase showed that if oil fell to $40 a barrel and production was 9 million barrels a day, Aramco would only remain within its selfimposed borrowing target if it cut the dividend by 30 per cent and slashed spending dramatically.

Arab Light crude, one of the nation's main grades. plunged to as little as $13.34 a barrel last month as an Opec+ agreement to curb supply fell apart and Saudi Arabia ramped up production. BLOOMBERG
