Avoid too-good-to-be-true offers when doing travel booking online

While on a trip, don't conduct sensitive transactions over public Wi-Fi

This summer, thousands of travellers will do their travel, hotel and other bookings online.

A recent survey by online security provider McAfee warms that they need to be highly vigilant when carrying out these bookings.

McAfee's Safer Holidays Travel Report, based on a survey of 7,000 people across seven countries (1,010 in India), found that $1 per cent of Indian adults surveyed have fallen victim to an online scan while doing travel-related booking. And, 77 per cent of those who had money stolen from them lost up to $1000 (around $82,000) even before the trip began.

Risky behaviour

Risky behaviour
High inflation in recent times has made travellers keen to save money and led some to indulge in imprudent behaviour. According to the McAfee survey, 54 per cent of the respondents were likely to seek bargain deals online, 50 per cent would quickly snap upsuch adeal. 44 per cent would be ready to try a new booking site, and 47 per cent would be willing to try a new destination.

Cyber criminals deploy phishing emails and fake websites that can lead to malware infection. The McAfee report suggests that travellers should emails and fake websites that can lead to malware infection. The McAfee report suggests that travellers should avoid emails offering mouth watering deals that ask them to click on a link. Instead, they should themselves go to the website of a reputable company and book. While bookingtickets, use only trusted online travel aggregators and agencies. Says Harsh Walia, partner, Khaitan & Company: "Ensure the legitimacy of the listings, websites, services, etc. before making any payment." Double check the website's link. "Phishers often modify spellings minutely so that one tends to miss the change," says Daniel D'Souza, president & country head-holidays, SOTCT ravel. He recommends checking the company's social media pages and company's social media pages and ▶ Before using your card at an ATM, touch and feel around the card slot to ensure no skimming device is installed

Use ATMs located in heavily frequented areas, and preferably under camera surveillance

▶ When using a card at a point of sale, avoid magnetic stripe cards and stick to chip and pin cards

Use contactless cards only at large merchant establishments (unlike India, overseas there is no limit on the amount that can be withdrawn from these cards)

▶ Enable international transaction option when the journey begins and disable it as soon as you return

If you have returned from a highrisk destination (where the incidence of card frauds is high), get the card replaced

Niyo: "Avoid all offers that appear too good to be true."

If the website is new, check for fund. "Type the company's name in Google Search and type the word "fraud' against it. This will the company," says Prashant Mali, advocate, and expert on cybercrime and data protection.

and data protection.

Make payments only on secure websites. "The address should begin with https: A padlock symbol should appear in the address bar," says Mali. The symbol indicates that data entered on the website gets encrypted before being transferred.

Look for popular payment options. "If options like Visa, MasterCard, American Express, Discover, etc are available, it is likely that some kind of due diligence would have been done by the network providers," says Bhaskar.

Beware of fake vacation rentals

Beware of Take vacation rentals Scammers often post fake vacation rentals, sometimes even on well-known platforms. They request payment upfront for the booking. When the traveller lands at the location, he discovers the rental is not available." says Mali. The McAfee report suggests checking the name of the property owner in public records. It also warms against paying for rentals by wire transfer, prepaid cards, or gift cards, as these transactions often can't be reversed. be reversed.

Stay vigilant during the trip

Stay vigilant during the trip Many travellers use public Wi-Fi to conduct sensitive transactions.
"When you use a free Wi-Fi network at a public place, any sensitive information you transfer could be intercepted and misused," says Mali.
Only connect with Wi-Fi networks from at rusted source or use a virtual private network (VPN).
Devices should be secured with strong passwords and biometric authentication. Software and antivirtus applications should be kept updated to prevent malware infection.
Holistic security solutions are available nowadays that can identify malicious websites, provide VPN, etc.
Walia suggests that before setting out on a trip, travellers should set transaction limits for digital payments, merchant transactions, and foreign transactions in their bank accounts. During the trip, check your bank account and credit card statements regularly for unauthorised transactions. Finally, stay updated about common online scams so that you don't fall prey to them.
